

WOMAN IS SOUGHT AS COUNTERFEITER

Is Believed to Have Been Principal Accomplice of Wrigley

CALLED YOUNG AND PRETTY

A young woman is being sought today by the United States Secret Service as the principal accomplice of Harry Wrigley, Dyer, who was held in $2000 bail for court on the charge of counterfeiting.

According to William H. Houghton, chief of the Secret Service, most of the money was passed by a woman. Many of the deposits in banks and trust companies, which fell by the score for the fake notes, were likewise made by this woman, who is pictured as young and beautiful.

Agents believe the woman is a relation of Wrigley, and traps have been set to apprehend her.

It was Wrigley's greed for money that got him into his present difficulties with the authorities. He was released a few years ago from the Atlantic Penitentiary after serving two years for counterfeiting gold coins.

Agents of the government are unanimous in the opinion that his counterfeit five-dollar bill was as close to perfect as they ever had seen.

Only a microscopic examination could reveal its fraud, so cleverly was it gotten up. The process of counterfeiting was most ingenious, according to Chief Houghton, who explained it to the commissioner and other government officers.

A genuine five-dollar bill was treated with a certain acid that caused its fibers to expand. While in this state of expansion it was cut lengthwise in half, giving a genuine back and front. Then corresponding counterfeit backs and fronts were pasted up and given to this woman to pass.

At the hearing Wrigley pleaded that his bill be made normal so that he could get out and provide for his wife and young children. The commissioner thought otherwise and held him in the $2000 bail for court.

When Wrigley saw the business with which his notes were being gulped up by the unsuspecting public he became greedy, according to the chief, and started to counterfeit entire counterfeit bills. This led to his downfall and brought him into the clutches of the law.
